Now, however, we are to run the gauntlet again, and if the black voters don't stay where they were when first enfranchised we are to be denounced as not at all disposed to conciliation and still tyrannizing over the African.

By this stratagem it is hoped to carry several districts in the South for Radicalism. Amongst the congressmen prominent in arranging this matter and fixing up the the redoubtable Jorgensen, who is sharp enough to see that a considerable effort will be required to secure his own reëlection. Let the Rads come on. They will find things not at all to their liking. The colored people in Virginia have been pretty well satisfied with "carpet-bag" guides, who have not failed to appropriate all the advantages gained by negro votes to themselves. JORGENSEN knows how it is. He has kept himself well in office by his pro- and the tax-payers. These statements have

The Florida Case.

The confessions of the Florida ballotthieves do not after the condition of that priate not less than $300,000,000 to satisfy which has been perfectly and irrevocably the southern claims. This kind of business settled. They surprise nobody; for everybody on all sides must have been satisfied that the frauds now confessed were committed. Were it possible by course of law with the result, as will be shown in detail to hang these rascals, that would be a good in a few days, that there are northern claims way of deterring such wretches from re- on file to the amount of $1,600,000,000. peating these crimes. Their confession now is of little value. No more than that of a confession revealing the name of ern men, having been bought up by an assassin after he is dead. Still, we say it would be good to dispose of them.

They committed a fearful crime-fearful for the danger in which it involved the the northern appropriations are two thirds country. We think Mr. CHARLES FRANCIS of the whole amount appropriated; but it ADAMS is right when he says that "should should be added that these mountains of another presidential election be ever held claims from all parts of the country are in this country under similar conditions I do not see how a terrible civil war can be the Treasury will hereafter be less than

It is to be hoped that Congress will mature a proper law to govern future elections. There should never be another held under the present law.

In regard to the confessions of the scoundrels implicated in the frauds of the returning boards, who troubles himself about them as to whether the confessions are true or not? These men now act from motives of hostility to President HAYES because he has not rewarded them as they expected he would. It is gratifying that the President has not inferentially implicated himself by any marked show of obligation to the thieves in the dispensation of his patronage. He has dissatisfied them all, and he may look for further confessions. The batch in New Orleans has been given the cold shoulder, and we may expect some howling from that quarter.

-The fearful frauds of the last election were disgraceful enough, and we trust they will lead to such laws as will protect the country in future from such evils. The Union floated over the rocks that were near wrecking the State, and most fortunate has been the turn in affairs which gave us peaceand State equality, together with that calm and serenity so favorable to a review of the past and taking proper measures for promoting the good and security of the country in the future.

Greenbackers. The party known as "greenbackers" is endeavoring to make a stand in the State of Massachusetts. General Butler is said to be their choice for Governor. General Ewing is the prominent national "greenbacker," and is found in company not at all to his liking, we suspect. There can be excessive issue of even greenbacks. One them. of the lunatics on the subject, we see, goes for an issue of $3,000,000,000 of that paper. These people seem to think that it is impossible to depreciate greenbacks by increasing the quantity of them afloat. They think that kind of paper money will defy the law of nature, and remain unaffected in value by the immensity of its quantity. The country will run into no such nonsense as this. It will be curious to see how solid and puritanical Massachusetts will take BUTLER'S riotous excesses.

The Rebel Claims. The Republicans are hard pressed for electioneering ammunition. The cry of rebel claims," which failed in the last campaign, is now about to be brought forward with all possible energy. These are claims that are made almost entirely by carpet-baggers and those "truly loil" southern people who can take the oath that they were always faithful to the Union. Only a few cases of schools and colleges are exceptional to this: such as William and Mary. College, the Methodist Book Concern in Nashville. But the South is charged with orators that are to be sent to the South is Nashville. But the South is charged with these claims, with only a few of which the South has any sympathy. But the trick was not successful, and will not help the "vindictive" and prevaricating partisans at the next campaign. A Washington letter in the Herant has the following statement upon the subject:

The Republicans have recently been publishing statements intended to produce the impression that the "southern-claims" business is a real danger to the Treasury fession of friendship for the colored man. been sent out from here in large quantities to the rural districts to inspire the voters with a terror of the Democratic party, which, it is charged, if it should be allowed to get into power, stands ready to approhowever, can be done by both sides, and the Republican exhibit of southern claims have led Democrats to go over the files of the bills in the present House and Senate, It will be shown at the that the greater part of the so-called southern claims are in the hands of norththem or originated by them, and being southern" only in the sense of location. It will be remembered that in the river and harbor bill, which has passed the House, constantly before Congress, with very little danger of being granted. The danger of ever, because there is no doubt that Mr. Potter's bill sending all such claims to the Court of Claims, and making it unlawful for Congress to pass upon any that are not favorably reported from the court, will become a law at the present session. This court has not a single southern judge, and but a single Democrat on it. This whole fuss about southern claims is only a cam-

> There have been strange things in Massachusetts of late. An astonishing amount of faithlessness has been developed in savings institutions and by men in fiduciary positions. This has led to an investigation of the early laws; among them the act by which the Massachusetts Bank was incorporated in 1784, and which provided that if any president, director, officer, or servant embezzled or converted to his own use any of the effects of the bank he should be set upon the gallows with a rope about his neck, or be set upon the pillory for the faithlessness has been developed in savings neck, or be set upon the pillory for the space of two hours, should forfeit all his personal estate and the issues of all his real estate during life. He was also to be rendered infamous and incapable of sustaining any office, civil or military. This shows what was thought of breaches of trust in those honest days, when they were fewer than they are now. This makes less improbable the story that in China the heads of the officers of a bank are considered as a part of the assets of the institution.
